

Amendments to the Abstract:

An induction hob comprising a hotplate, beneath which at least one induction mechanism is situated in a housing. ~~Said~~ The housing comprises a base and lateral walls that project vertically and are connected to the hotplate. The walls delimit an inner chamber of their corresponding housing containing the induction mechanism. At least one sub-section of the housing base is configured as a one-piece plastic section.